Team Work at Home

By

Mr Sharu Rangnekar, Management Educator & Guru

August 3, 2012 @ Bangalore, 0600pm to 0745pm

Abstract:

Every executive undergoes formal or informal training regarding team-work in the work place. The team work at home is equally, if not more important. But very few have spent any significant time for understanding the basics of team work at home. Apart from the spouse, children are also involved in this team work. Many senior executives having being successful in work life have become frustrated by lack of team-work at home. The burden song is : "They do not understands me". How to improve this understanding is the focus of this lecture. It does not give sermons what the audience "should" do. Everybody has done something in his own life with some success and some failure. The lecture tries to give insight into where you been successful and where there has been failure. Thus, you can learn from your own experience and that will be more pertinent for you to make a change.

This lecture is intended for all senior executives, their spouses as well as grown up children above 14 years of age.

Mr. Sharu S. Rangnekar is a Chemical Engineer from Bombay with a Master of Business Administration degree from the U.S.A. He carried out research work in Mathematical Economics at the Carnegie-Mellon University, Pittsburgh, U.S.A. He had management training with Imperial Chemical Industries, UK and computer training with IBM and Union Carbide Corporation, U.S.A.

He started his management career in 1951 as a Consultant in Ibcon and subsequently worked in several multinationals till he took early retirement from Searle (India) as the Managing Director at the end of 1978. He taught as Visiting Faculty at Tata Institute of Social Sciences and Management Institutes attached to Bombay University from 1979 to 1986.

He has been a popular lecturer and writer on management topics. His books: "In the Wonderland of Indian Manager" and "In the World of Corporate Managers" have become management classics.

His lectures on management topics have been issued in audio-CD. He has featured in several management development video-CDs. He has participated as a faculty in nearly 5000 management development programmes in India and abroad since 1966.

His website www.sharurangnekar.com gives details of his programmes, books and training material.
