About the Conclave

Today businesses are in constant flux as organizations intervene with newer tools, techniques and technology to grapple with the pandemic. Discerning customers, astute investors, digital and energy disruptions are the key variables to focus. Organisations need to be agile, nimble, innovative, adaptive and possess the ability to exploit this context. The broad mandate is inclusivity, sustainability, collaboration, risk management, Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) and being humane.

The one day conclave on FinTech: Digital Transformation in the Pandemic Era brings experts from across the industry who will dialogue, debate, deliberate and share their reflections in the digital transformation and FinTech space. FinTech, a portmanteau of finance and technology is the application of technology for the development of financial products and services. It is an innovative way of offering financial products and services for better customer retention. FinTech aids the stakeholder to respond, adapt and to realise the upside potential of disruption. Every second startup is a FinTech enterprise, giving a tough contest to the legacy and incumbent business enterprises. FinTech innovation promotes both scale and reach leading to resource effectiveness.

Digital transformation has brought in a new dimension for economic units in terms of engagement, collaboration and function. This transformation was necessitated because of the pandemic and enabled by big data and data science. Aspirations to have a lean and mean balance sheet and asset light business models are more plausible now. The Finance and Accounting (F&A) functions like Procure to Pay, Order to Cash, Collect to Cash, Record to Report etc. (P2P, C2C, C2C, R2R) have been realigned and transformed a great deal. There is a digital revolution in the world of finance (banking, insurance, microfinance, digital payments, capital market, financial analytics and corporate finance across industries and economic units). The conclave purposes to deliberate on some of these key enablers to educate participants how to deal, prepare build the requisite skills for increased effectiveness.
